

CANADIAN
Vitality Pathway

WHO LEADS THE CANADIAN VITALITY PATHWAY?

CANADA'S LOW CARBON CORRIDOR

A team with a history of capitalizing on change, outstanding public service, and understanding perspectives.

CVP LEADERSHIP, OWNERS AND FOUNDERS

Fred Gallagher

- Founded Vision Quest Windelectric Inc., one of Canada's first major independent renewable energy companies in 1992.
- Worked in multinational, utility, and start-up settings, bringing ideas from one industry segment to another to create significant new opportunity for multiple parties.

Neil McCrank

- Served as Alberta's Deputy Justice Minister from 1989 to 1998 before chairing the Alberta Energy and Utilities Board from 1998 until 2007. Extensive regulatory experience and service at all levels of government.

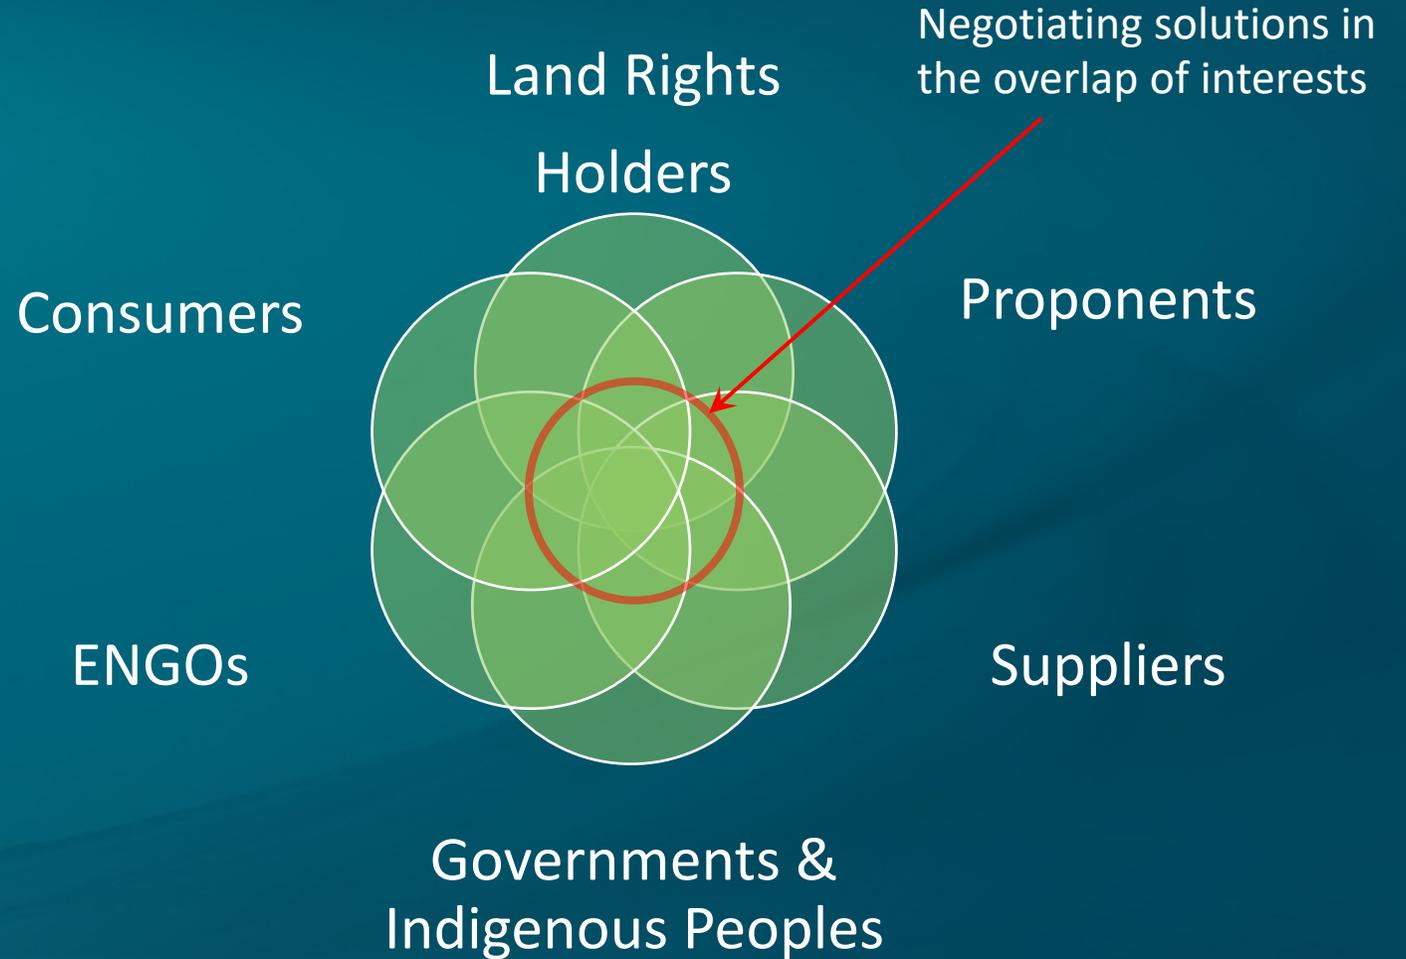

Joel Holdaway

- Specializes in Dispute Resolution (MSc Degree) between organizational and community interests. Worked with federal and provincial governments in the areas of community conflict, commodity analysis, and transportation corridors

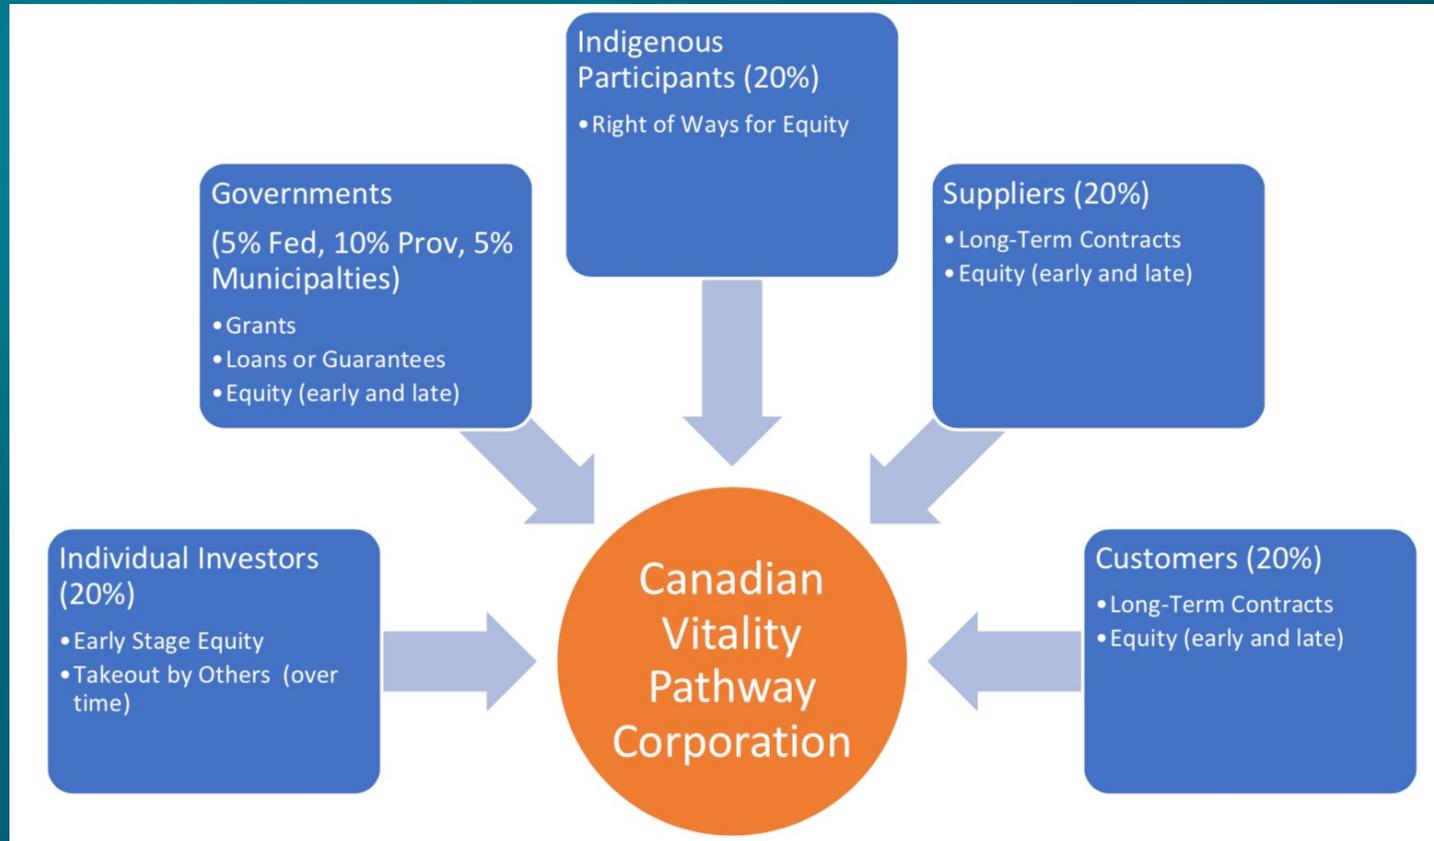

CANADIAN VITALITY PATHWAY (CVP) ROLE

Early-stage negotiation by collaborators establish mutual interests, underutilized assets & market needs...

... and enterprise “ownership” brings direct negotiation of pathway development process & structure.

CVP PROPOSED OWNERSHIP STRUCTURE – PROPOSAL CIRCA 2019

We have discussed Canadian corridors for more than half a century,
its time to establish how to do them

CVP - A COLLABORATIVE CORRIDOR MANAGEMENT ENTERPRISE

Commercially Focused

- Private sector led to reveal latent value and establish “Functional” Corridors
- Delivering value to stakeholders through mutually advantageous trade and commerce

Non-political and No Single Entity Ownership

- Multi-collaborator ownership including a carried interest for Indigenous equity
- All governments can and should participate Federal, Provincial and Municipal
- Independently governed through Charter of Governance, Management and Oversight
- Subject to Regulator approvals and oversight

Self-Financing - Sustainability and Independence

- Achieving use and long-term revenue stream is critical to sustainability
- Not dependent on any one interest group or entity for financial stability

Bridging Gaps and Silos Through Multi-Collaborator Ownership

- Open Source – Common Carrier
- Bringing parties to the table to reveal mutual interests
- Negotiation to solutions not consultation
- Engaged owners not bystanders
